CRIME RISES IN COUNTY

Grand Jury Decries Teen Disdain for Law

Juvenile contempt for the law and a disinterest on the part of many parents were scored last week by the County Grand Jury.

Foreman John F. Hickey said the jury is pleased and impressed with the quality of law enforcement in San Mateo County, but is disturbed by the "trying conditions" under which enforcement agencies are required to work.

In addition to the seeming contempt for police in some quarters, Hickey said, law enforcement officers are being handicapped by recent court decisions restricting their activities and discouraged by what they consider to be too light sentences for lawbreakers.

At the same time San Mateo County was listed as one of five counties with the greatest crime increase in the state in statistics covering the first six months of this year.

Attorney General Thomas C. Lynch's office at Sacramento issued the half-year report, showing an increase of 5.8 per cent in felony crime reports per 100,000 population compared with the first six months of 1963.

The other counties with the greatest crime increase are Marin, Santa Barbara, Humboldt and Sonoma.

Total state-wide felonies in the report, compiled from various police agencies, were 163,289. But, said Lynch in a statement, this presents "no significant change" in California's "10-year pattern of a steadily rising crime rate."

The report was prepared by the Bureau of Criminal Statistics of the State Department of Justice.

Hickey decried the liberal interpretations of the courts on what consitutes pornography and blamed smut for many of the crimes that are committed by juveniles.

The jury found, the foreman said, that there is no organized crime in San Mateo County.

"We think that is the result of very close attention on the part of the police departments, sheriff's office and district attorney. There is good communication and co-operation between the departments."

Hickey said the jury did not investigate all police departments but did check a "pretty good cross section."

"We were impressed," he said, "with the departments and the manner in which they are handling their problems under what we consider to be trying conditions."

Hickey cited the Dorado case as one high court ruling that is handicapping the work of police. It requires police to notify suspects of their legal rights at the earliest stages of their investigations. The foreman said the ruling has required the elimination of much undercover work. The decision is on ap-

Yule Plays Are Banned In Pacifica

Lynch Loses Christmas Fight

Allemar School teacher Alfred R. Lynch last week lost his battle to present a Christmas play to his fourth-grade class.

The Laguna Salada School District Board of Trustees backed the ruling of Principal John Jacobs and of a school teachers' committee to the effect that the play selected was denominational and sectarian in nature.

Lynch, who has charged that he is fighting "pressures to eliminate Christ from Christmas," made a statement of protest before the board last week.

He charged that the censorship and pressures exerted on him personally and upon teachers in general to strip Christmas of its rich cultural and religious significance is, in his opinion, a direct threat to academic freedom.

He noted that the district has ordered that no Christmas trees be allowed in the schools except in the community room. He said teachers have been instructed to discourage any exchange of gifts and are forbidden to sing any carols or hymns in a "sectarian or denominational setting."

Supt. Fred Lucas said that it is true that no gifts were to be exchanged—"We are trying to avoid the commercializing of Christmas."

Lucas said that the trees in every classroom would be a fire hazard and that each child had brought an ornament for the community room tree in each school.

He said that carols are being sung but that denominational

Santa Claus Vigil in Daly City

WITH THEIR stockings already in place over the fireplace, these three Daly City youngsters were taking no chances this week that Santa Claus might slip down the chimney early with his bag of Christmas goodies. The youngsters are, left to right, Robert, 6; Pamela, 4; and Richard Ottolini, 2, the children of Mr. and Mrs. Roy G. Ottolini of 317 El Dorado Drive. If past performance is any indication, Santa will most likely be able to slip by the Ottolini youngsters — and other North County youngsters as well — to leave a raft of brightly-packaged presents for young and old alike Christmas Day.

JUHS Files Its Reply to Salary Suit

Interscholastic sports are a part of the regular school program in the Jefferson High School District and should not be considered as additional and separate activities.

This is the theme of an answer filed in Superior Court by the district administration in response to a suit by 35 district coaches, asking for additional pay for what they say is extra work.

The suit was filed on behalf of the Jefferson District Coaches' Association. It states that many hours are spent by the 35 coaches in excess of the regular school day and that it is "unreasonable" to expect them to do this work without additional compensation.

The coaches said they are

TORMEY AIRS STAND

Unification Funds Will Be Curtailed

By JOHN CURRY

Its unification plans for the Sequoia Union High School District already being frowned upon from on high at the state level, it was revealed Thursday night that the San Mateo County Committee on School District Organization faces a cutoff of county funds to do its work for the 1964-65 fiscal year.

Dr. Ernest L. Nelson, chairman of the county committee, made public a letter from County Schools Superintendent James R. Tormey dated December 7 that said he would ask for no funds in the 1965-66 fiscal county budget for the committee "beyond those required to meet legal necessities."

The county committee met at Central School in San Carlos Thursday night for a public hearing on the E-1, or Carlmont,

Complaints From Tavern Group Aired

Pacifica city officials refused comment last week on a sion late Wednesday night in which complaints from local tavern owners charging that police are so drastically stopping patrons driving away from bars that business is being hurt, were reportedly discussed.

Although the personnel session was ostensibly called to review a police department training program, it was learned that during the lengthy

D. C. Couple Win $10,000

The neck triumph by Honored Sir in the Children's Hospital Handicap last week at Bay Meadows was the biggest thrill of their lives for Mr. and Mrs. Sam Bray of 89 Miriam Street, Daly City, and understandably so.

The Bray's held the winning ticket on Honored Sir in the annual sweepstakes conducted by the Women's Auxiliary of the Children's Hospital of San Francisco. It was worth $10,000.

Bray works in the special delivery Department at the Rincon annex post office. He never handled a more important letter than that delivered by Honored Sir and his hard-riding pilot, Miguel Yanez.

Mrs. Bray broke out in tears of joy as Yanez hustled Honored Sir over the finish line in front of the fast-closing Biggs, while her husband literally danced for joy.

Bray, who is 58, bought the winning ticket at the Alec Department Store in Colma. He purchased just one ticket from Mrs. Hattie Etten, who collects $1,000 as the seller.

"I usually buy five or six tickets, but this year I didn't intend to buy any because I never have won anything," said Bray. "However, I was at Alec's and I decided to buy just the one ticket.

"Boy, am I happy I did."

Mr. and Mrs. Bray plan to pay off the mortgage on their home and to do something for their four grandchildren. They have two sons, one living in

RESCUE TRY FAILS

Drain Basin Claims Life Of D. C. Boy

(Picture, Page 2)

By RON BATES

An 8-year-old Daly City boy slipped and fell into a seven-foot-deep storm drainage catch basin Saturday afternoon and drowned—despite the desperate efforts of a young playmate and firemen to save him.

The victim is Willie James Jackson Jr., of 632 St. Frances Boulevard, a second grade student at Christopher Columbus School.

The accident occured only 600 feet away from the scene of an almost similar tragedy that occurred September 15 of last year when 5-year-old Robert Matson of 11 Santa Elena Avenue fell into a 20-foot drain shaft and suffocated.

Willie and his friend, Marc Schafler, 9, of 756 St. Francis Boulevard, were playing with a car tire at the concrete drain basin, located in a deep gully behind the St. Francis Shopping Center.

The basin, a 7-foot by 20-foot concrete box, is used to collect water from the city's street drainage system and to control erosion.

Police pieced together this sequence of events:

The tire the boys were playing with began rolling into the basin and Willie made a grab to catch it. He slipped on the muddy surface and tumbled into the basin.

Marc ran to the basin in time to catch Willie's hand and tried to pull him out. His hand was wet, however, and it slipped from Marc's grasp. Willie fell

Macy's Plans An Outlet in Serramonte

Macy's California announced last week that it will build a $9 million department store in the new Serramonte Regional Shopping Center in Daly City.

Agreement to build the two level 200,000 square foot store in the heart of the 1,000 acre $220 million Serramonte development was signed by Ernest L. Molloy, president of Macy's California,—Carl Gellert, president, and William F. Morton, executive vice president of Suburban Realty Company, the developer of Serramonte.

Molloy said, "our company is very pleased to be the first major store to be announced for the new Serramonte Center. It is our hope to open this new facility in the fall of 1967."

The project will be a two department store center, and all units will be built simultaneously. The 72 acre shopping center will feature an air conditioned enclosed central mall, the only

Happy Holidays All From Westlake Shopping Center Merchants!

D.C. 'HEADACHES'

Major Change Set for Two Intersections

Two major tradfic headaches for Daly City motorists—the intersections of Alemany and Lake Merced Boulevards and Alemany and Park Plaza Drive are due for some strong medicine.

The city plans to use a $30,000 allocation from state gas tax funds to buy the medicine—which will take the form of new signals, concrete islands and a new entrance to the Westlake Shopping Center, which is situated between the two intersections.

Plans to eliminate some of the turns that long have confused motorists will be considered by the Daly City Council at a meeting Monday night.

The problems at the intersections stem from the fact that South and North Mayfair Avenues parallel much-travelled Alemany and motorists, bound for the shopping center, take advantage of many possible turns—some legal, some not.

As a result, traffic tie-ups at both intersections are frequent during rush hours and minor accidents occur sporadically — further snarling the intersections.

With the opening of White Street, earlier this year, connecting the Shopping Center with Broadmoor, traffic along Park Plaza Drive became heavier and the Daly City Public Works Department set up a number of sandbag traffic islands in an attempt to control some of the illegal turns.

Several busted bags later, regular users of the intersection became acclimated to the new traffic pattern.

Part of the new plans call for concrete islands to be built where the sandbags now are located.

A set of signal lights on the south side of Park Plaza and South Mayfair also will be erected and synchronized with existing signals on Alemany to eliminate a stop sign that, observers have noted, has confused motorists.

Motorists frequently approach the stop sign, then edge out to the Alemany-Park Plaza intersection in order not to miss the green signal because of cross traffic along South Mayfair.

Another part of the plans is to build another entrance to the shopping center in the vicinity of the center's large reader-board sign on the south side of Alemany.

The new entrance would accommodate motorists traveling east on Alemany, enabling them to make a right turn into the center. It would be expected to eliminate a turn at the Lake Merced-Alemany intersection.

Another change in area traffic patterns is being planned by the City of San Francisco near Lake Merced.

The Y-intersection of Lake Merced and John Muir Drive will be altered and brighter lighting installed.

Restaurant In Pacifica Is Held Up

San Mateo County's "lock 'em up and run" bandits struck again last week for the second time in less than a week.

Early Friday morning, two armed gunmen locked 11 persons in a storeroom at Nick's Rockaway, a tavern in Pacifica, after robbing the bar of $1,723 and customers of nearly $300.

Police concluded they were the same bandits who on the morning of December 13 herded 14 employes and customers into rooms at a Millbrae steak house and locked the doors after relieving the bar and patrons of $2,800.

The method of operation and description of the pair in both holdups were identical, Inspector Al Tebaldi of Pacifica reported. He said it was the first robbery of the well-known Coastside restaurant in 32 years of its existence.

Russell Conroy, 44, 612 Reina del Mar, the bartender, said the bandits came into the cocktail lounge aronund midnight and ordered several drinks.

As one man, described as about 35 to 40 years old; 5-feet 8 inches tall, with dark hair and dressed in sports clothes, strolled toward a group of customers sitting on the other side of the bar, his companion—described as about 30 and 5 feet 10 inches tall, walked towards the entrance, apparently acting as a lookout.

Approaching the customers, the gunman pulled out a .45-calibre automatic, declaring, "This is a holdup and I mean business."

performing their duties this year under protest.

In the answer filed for the district by Deputy District Attorney Lois Scampini, it is denied "that the activities mentioned . . . are apart from the regular school day and the basic instructional program."

"The interscholastic sports program of the various high schools," the document continues, "is an integral part of the total instructional and curriculum program."

The answer states that sports "classes" are scheduled regularly for the sixth period of every day and denies "that plaintiffs are required to instruct many hours, or any hours whatsoever, in excess of the regular school day."

In their suit, in which they ask the court to settle their dispute with the district, the coaches noted that some of their contracts are oral.

With her answer, Miss Scampini included a notice given to the faculty last March by Superintendent Edward D. Morgan.

session lasting until well after midnight that council members questioned Police Chief Neal Tremaine about complaints from tavern owners that a clampdown on drunk driving has resulted in a loss of business.

Some tavern owners have charged that the ratio of cars stopped after leaving local bars is higher than any other city in the county.

Both Tremaine and City Manager Karl A. Baldwin declined comment on the meeting.

During an open meeting earlier, the council approved the first unit of the giant Karp Development Company apartment house project at Skyline and Hickey Boulevards by a three to two vote. Mayor Fred Ballew and Councilman Don McMannis voted against approval. Ballew urged his fellow council members to wait for plans for the entire project before approving the first unit, while McMannis objected to setback variances.

Petitions for Board Recall Distributed

Recall petitions presently are being circulated throughout the Laguna Salada School District seeking the signatures necessary to order an election to recall the five-member school board of trustees.

Eighteen volunteers with petitions representing more than 3,000 listed signatures started the job last week with an expected 40 parents who eventually will be circulating the documents throughout the Pacifica area.

Eugene Cowhig, of 1026 Fassler Avenue, leader of Help Eliminate Lax Planning (HELP), said that it will be difficult to comment on progress of the task until after the holidays because parents have been told to go at their own speed in obtaining signatures from a necessary 20 per cent of the registered voters in the school district.

Cowhig said that everyone is enthusiastic and seems to be buckling down to the long task ahead.

He said he felt that the recent furor over the district's Christmas observance policy will definitely help the recall movement.

"I attended the meeting of the board Friday night and witnessed the sympathy and applause granted Alfred Lynch after he submitted his statement to the trustees," Cowhig said.

Lynch is protesting what he considers the censorship and pressures that have been exerted upon him to strip Christmas of its "rich cutltural and religious significance."

Unification Funds Will Be Cut Off

unification proposal that would unify the San Carlos and Belmont elementary school districts and include Carlmont and San Carlos High Schools from the Sequoia Union High School District.

Speakers from the small group of about 20 spectators generally favored the proposal, but the committee decided to withhold a final vote on it until the other two unifications plans, for the Redwood City and south county areas, have been through public hearings next month.

All three of the unification plans were rejected by the State Board of Education in September but if resubmitted and approved this winter, may be put before the district voters before June 30.

Tormey, a long-time foe of the splitting of Sequoia, San Mateo and Jefferson high school districts into three, two and two unified districts, respectively, said almost as much in his letter.

He noted that he has been securing additional money in the budget from the county board of supervisors for the committee for the past three years to augment its funds to "objectively pursue its obligations" to conduct research and study for unification proposals and decisions.

But he went on: "It is now clearly evident that tht San Mateo County Committee is no longer in a position objectively to study the needs of the county in terms of the requirements placed upon it by the legislature of the state. It is, therefore, my intention, in submitting the 1965-66 county school budgets to the board of supervisors, not to include any financial provisions beyond those required to meet legal necessities, particularly those of Education Code . . . " candidates rumored for the post —Ryan, himself, and attorney David Friedenberg, president of the Daly City-Colma Chamber of Commerce.

Ryan, according to informed sources, had been interested in the post because it pays $12,000 a year and permits the holder to spend most of his time in the county.

Friedenberg, a former Daly City resident, lives in Westborough, a block outside the fifth district boundary line. He maintains his law practice in Daly City.

The remaining candidates for the post, Daly City Vice Mayor Frank Pacelli, former Pacifica Councilwoman Jean Fassler, Daly City Chamber of Commerce Manager Peter Markovich, Jefferson Elementary School Board Trustee Thomas Noonan, and Half Moon Bay Councilman Eldred Holgerson, are all eligible under the ruling.

S. M. Grand Jury Decries Juvenile Contempt of Law

peal and Hickey said the jury will recommend that the appeal be upheld.

"Penalties are some times so light after convictions are obtained," Hickey said, "that police are wondering whether it is worth the effort. Criminals get right back on the street and there is a tremendous number of repeaters."

"The jury has been very much impressed with the fact that the juvenile problem is a very serious one, because of failure of kids to accept any responsibility for their own activities and a corresponding unwillingness of their parents to correct and discipline them at home.

"This is not related to any particular race or economic strata. It represents a cross-section of the community at large."

"Too often when juveniles are apprehended their attitude toward the policeman is extremely belligerent. They seem to have no respect for constituted authority."

Hickey said the common use of the word "fuzz" for policemen demonstrates contempt for law enforcement.

"One policeman told us, 'This used to be a badge, now it's a target'," the foreman said.

Jurors talked with Police Chief Donald Pearman of Half Moon Bay after he spoke out against sexual promiscuity and drunkenness among juveniles on the beaches, Hickey said. Pearman told them, according to the foreman, that many parents "did not seem to be overly concerned" when told of their children's involvement.

Hickey scored the liberal interpretation of obscenity by the courts and noted the difficulty of obtaining convictions because of it.

"A great majority of this stuff ends up in the hands of juveniles," he declared. "It is the type of thing that encourages brutality, sadism and barnyard morals."

'We were very impressed with the caliber of police officer in the departments and sheriff's office. They are being carefully selected and subjected to a great deal more training than in other years and are being very well supervised.

back and disappeared in the muddy water.

Marc made another lunge for his companion but could not reach him.

He then ran almost a half mile up the steep slope of the gully to his home to summon help. His mother, Mrs. Nathan Schafler, called police who in turn alerted firemen.

Mark led fireman Gene Clinger of 604 Hanover Street to the scene and Clinger, 35, stripped to his shorts and dove into the cold waters.

Because of mud and debris in the basin, Clinger was unable to see below the surface and could only feel his way about in the water. He was joined by Vernon Altomarino, 36, of 139 Cerro Drive, who had donned a skin-diving suit.

The two men found Willie at the bottom of the drain and pulled him out.

The boy, however, failed to respond to artificial respiration and mouth-to-mouth resuscitation.

Investigators estimated that 25 to 30 minutes had elapsed between the time the accident occurred and the time firemen arrived at the scene.

The drainage facility had been built by the developer of St. Francis Heghts, the McKeown Corporation, as part of the area's storm drainage collection system.

Yule Plays Are Banned In Pacifica

settings and garments or symbols peculiar to the practice of a particular sect of the Christian or other religions were banned.

Lynch charged that he had been "personally accused of irregularities in classroom activity when third grade children asked God to help a dying child."

Lynch said that he has been queried about the slogan "God Bless America" over his classroom blackboard. He said he had been under especially close scrutiny during the Yuletide.

Lucas said he didn't know anything about the slogan, but that "we sing God Bless America in classes and in the auditorium, and we always sang it to open our Lions' Club meetings. I certainly have no objection to it."

Lynch, who offered two plays, said they were turned down because of their lack of conformity to the standards established by the district. He considers this absurd and punitive, he said.

"It would appear to be time for parents to reassert their rights and to insist that children in the Laguna Salada School District be allowed to fully participate in the deep religious and cultural heritage of our civilization, particularly as it pertains to the beautiful and thrilling story of Christmas," he concluded.

About 50 parents in attendance at the meeting last week applauded heartily after hearing Lynch's statement.

"If I have ever offended any student or parents in my 10 years of teaching, I'm sure I would not be receiving such parental support," he remarked.

He revealed that his telephone has scarcely stopped ringing since his stand was made public, and that he knows this problem has been created by the administration, not the children.

Lucas said that although the district does not allow the teaching of a religion, it does teach about religion and has a course that instructs about Christmas observances in all lands and about the Jewish observance of Chanukah.

An 18-member teachers' committee which reviewed the plays and suggested that they were not suitable also issued a terse statement defending its stand.

The statement did not say what the other Vallemar teachers found objectionable, other than that they did not conform to the district policy.

S.F. CRASH DEATHS

Kin of Victims Assails Ruling

The brother of three victims of a San Francisco automobile crash last week attacked the ruling of a San Mateo County Superior Court judge in releasing a Pacifica youth to probation after the 17-year-old driver had been found guilty of "gross negligence."

"Instead of leniency, the boy should have received a sentence whereby he'd have learned a lesson," Kaz Fujimoto, 25, declared. "He should have been put away for awhile for what he did."

Judge Frank Rose, who extended probation to Daniel Gramlich after he was found guilty of felony manslaughter by the Youth Guidance Center in San Francisco, took a different view.

"People have the idea Juvenile Court law says there must be punishment. But rehabilitation must be considered also," Judge Rose commented.

"I feel this boy did not have a strongly delinquent pattern. He showed extreme remorse and seemed depressed over the accident. He suffered a traumatic shock to an extent where he had required medical care."

The case was referred to Rose, who is County Juvenile Court judge, because this is the county of Gramlich's residence.

Juvenile Court Referee Forest Petersen had decreed the immediate custody of the boy for "the protection of the boy and the protection of society," pending sentence. He said the boy had been drinking before the accident on Great Highway.

Killed in the accident were three children of the Taichi Fujimoto family of Morgan Hill—Keiko, 22, Shoko, 21, and Don, 15.

Judge Rose extended several conditions of probation to Gramlich.

The boy cannot drive again until the court determines he is fit to do so, he ruled; the boy is to live with his father in Marin County, instead of with his mother in Pacifica; he is to be closely supervised by his father and work in the latters' Mill Valley TV shop. And he must do something constructive to benefit the community. Arrangements have been made for him to do part-time work as a "volunteer" in the kennels of Guide Dogs for the Blind in San Rafael.

The First National Bank of Daly City will open its new branch in Pacifica January 4, according to executive vice president Evert Terminello.

A week-long open house at the branch, situated in the Eureka Square Shopping Center, is planned.

Michael Wyman, assistant cashier at First National, will be the manager. He will be assisted by Howard Miller. Tellers will be Carol Rajeski and Juanita Peterson.

With the opening of the Pacifica office, First National also will initiate something new in banking.

Both the Daly City and Pacifica offices will remain open until 8 p.m., Fridays, Terminello said.

Terminello said the branch office, the first for First National, will feature a completely new interior—having been specially designed by the banking firm.

The latest in banking equipment has been installed, he said, to make banking, for the customer, as convenient as possible.

He added that a study he made of the area showed that Pacifica is the "fastest growing community" in San Mateo County and it appears that this trend will continue.

First National received approval in October from the Comptroller of the Currency to open the Pacifica Branch.

The bank first opened in Daly City at temporary quarters in May of 1963. The firm moved to its permanent quarters at 6600 Mission Street in April of this year.

Bandit Robs S.S.F. Motel Aide of $664

A heavy-set man with a tiny silver-plated pistol robbed the Holiday Inn at 245 South Airport Boulevard, South San Francisco, of $664 early last Tuesday, and disappeared into the rain-mist.

Night clerk Jim Kay, 25, told police he was seated at the switchboard at 5:30 a.m. when he felt something jab him in the back.

Turning toward the check-in desk, he saw a large dark complexioned man, with a nylon stocking pulled down over his face.

"All I want is your green stuff, no change," said the big man, waving a pistol that Kay later estimated as a .32 caliber.

Kay told police he was then ordered to lie down on the floor, and the robber disappeared after looting the cash register.

He described the gunman as 30 to 35 years old, five feet ten to six feet in height, and weighing 200 to 210 pounds.

The thief was wearing a three-quarter length grey topcoat, he said, and blue trousers with an off-color stripe.

THEFT REPORTED

Jack Campodonico of 496 El Dorado Drive, Daly City, reported to police last week that $150 in cash, two rifles and four revolvers had been stolen from his residence.

WINDOW BROKEN

Jack R. Williams of 98 Menlo Avenue, Daly City, reported to police over the weekend that vandals had thrown a rock through a window of his residence.

Coast Beach Group Hears Study Report

Decision-making and idea-airing, two processes equally vital in preliminary steps to transform the Pacifica coastline into a North County playground, are proceeding slowly but steadily, according to members of the city's Shoreline Development Committee.

Edward Maykel, consulting engineer for the group, presented a status report on work presently under way.

He had been expected to submit a work time schedule to the group but was unable to do so because of delays in a study being conducted by the U. S. Army Corps of Engineers.

Any work by the committee depends largely on findings in the Corps' study of the effects of erosion on Pacifica's coastline.

Eldred Lokker, spokesman for the committee, said that Maykel presumably will have the the time schedule ready for the next meeting of the group.

The Corps of Engineers has asked to meet with the group sometime in February.

The committee also heard a report on a recent beach erosion control conference in Santa Monica.

Lokker, Maykel, Harold Minshew and Charles Trifiletti attended the meeting, sponsored by the State Department of Water Resources.

Lokker said no specific program was advised but that the Pacifica problem was mentioned and is receiving attention from the department.

JESD Aides Consult With Board Staff

Although the unusual proposal to tear down Woodrow Wilson School in Daly City and erect a new building to take its place has been rejected by the State Allocations Board, the Jefferson Elementary District has not given up hope.

District Supt. Dr. Richard Foster and his assistant in charge of administration, Dr. David F. Shapiro, met with the administrative staff of the State Board last Tuesday in hopes of coming to some kind of agreement.

Dr. Foster said his staff will consider the matter for another month and that final results of this study should be known after the first of the year.

"Our hopes lie in finding a workable and satisfactory compromise," Dr. Foster stated.

Asked about what he thought would be the final outcome, he replied: "My colleagues call me an incurable optimist."

Approval of the proposal to replace the old school with a brand new building would have set a precedent in the state.

The district maintains that building a new school would be less costly than remodeling the present structure to meet current educational standards.

Dr. Foster told the district's board of trustees last Monday night that members of the Allocations Board felt it would be illegal to condemn a structurally sound building even through the district considered it educationally unsound.

Staff Works On Yearbook

Members of Westmoor High School's yearbook staff are well along in their preparation of the school's annual showpiece publication.

The 1965 edition of the "Rambler" is being edited by two seniors, Leeanna Boss and Neill Fishman. Assisting them will be:

Mike Levin and Dave Lovrin, art editors; Bob Anderson and Bill Baron, photographers; Bob Sherwood and Kendall Prada, layout editors; Gail Kuwamoto and Chris Weighton, class affairs, and Joe Lumpkin and Dan Bonyhadi, feature and special events.

Sylvia Castro and Marilee Wilson, production editors; Janice Taylor, club activities and girls' sports and Rusty Cohen, sports editor.

Advisor to the "Rambler" is Selwyn Jones, art instructor.

Robber Seized After He Returns to Crime Scene

A San Francisco man was seized by Daly City police early Saturday morning after a Daly City woman had reported she had been robbed of $20 at knifepoint.

Arrested and charged with robbery was Darol E. Shields, 22, who was seized as he was leaving the basement apartment of Louise M. Garrett, 20, of 501 Vista Grande Avenue.

The woman told Patrolman Donald Cubic that the suspect, whom she said she knew, had tried to gain entrance to her apartment about 12:30 a.m., and that when she told him to go away, he broke through the front door.

When she attempted to phone for help, the suspect brandished a knife and took $20 from her purse, she reported.

After the robber had left, Miss Garrett called her stepfather, Robert Ellinghouse of 1 Fairway Drive, Daly City, who in turn called police.

After officers had completed their initial investigation at the apartment, they left but returned later after receiving a call that a prowler was in the area. Shields was arrested at that time.

Investigators were seeking an accomplice in connection with the robbery.

WALLET STOLEN

Daryl Shamitoff a Westmoor High School student, reported to police last week that a wallet, containing miscellaneous papers, keys and a dollar had been stolen from his locker at Westmoor.

S. F. State

WITH CONCERT pianist Johana Harris, and the Roth Quartet a well-known string group for more than three decades, performing in concert, the San Francisco State College Artists' series will be launched for 1965 Sunday, January 3, with a program at 3 p.m., in the main auditorium.

The concert will include the works of Brahms, Beethoven and Ravel.

Mrs. Harris, wife of the noted composer Roy Harris, will be featured in Brahms' "Quintet in F minor" with the Roth Quartet. She has appeared before on the San Francisco State concert stage and is noted as a performer on television, radio and recordings.

The Roth Quartet has been internationally acclaimed since its founding in 1926. Its latest European appearances were given in 1963. They have been honored with an award of merit by the National Association for American Composers and Conductors.

They will play Beethoven's "Quartet in C sharp minor" and Ravel's "Quartet in F major," as well as the Brahms work with Mrs. Harris.

San Mateo

CATHLEEN GRAYCAR, an 18-year-old freshman from Redwood City, is the winner of a design contest for a new College of San Mateo official seal.

Miss Graycar was awarded the top prize of $100 in cash.

Her entry, and all the other designs submitted, will be considered by CSM President Julio L. Bortolazzo's advisory committee as a possible replacement for the present college seal.

Miss Graycar's winning design, in the form of an oval, shows the campus library, a burning torch as the symbol of eternal knowledge, a book cover illustrated with a redwood tree and the Latin words, "Providere, Parare, Proficere" (foresee, prepare, achieve), and the college's "birth year," 1922, at the bottom.

MEMBERSHIP IN College of San Mateo Patrons Association has reached a total of 1,383 parents and faculty members, according to Mrs. Bruno Garbuio of San Mateo, membership chairman.

This is the highest of any P-TA unit in the county, the group was informed.

Help Needed for Colma Family

"We don't want any presents. All we want for Christmas is our daddy home."

This was the response last week at the tidy home of the Ramon Moctezuma family, 312 D Street, Colma, despite some crushing tragedies which have left the family penniless and in debt.

Ramon Moctezuma was in County General Hospital with a severely broken leg which may have had to be amputated. A janitor by trade, he was severely injured November 20 near Fresnillo, Zacatecas, Mexico, when his car was sideswiped by a truck on the PanAmerican Highway while on a visit.

His son, Felipe, 18, was killed in the crash. Ramon was shipped home yesterday so that he can recover near his family but the medical expenses and burial costs have put the family deep into debt.

A close family friend, Mrs. Vernon Boyd, 135 London Court, Millbrae, who knew the family in Texas 12 years ago, went to the Christmas Bureau for aid so that a special Yule treat could be arranged. Toys for Tots are also helping out.

The mother, Aurelia, is employed as a maid at the Holiday Inn but it will be at least six months before Ramon is able to work again.

BETTER BUSINESS

Swindles Reach High at Yuletide

By LORENE BEASLEY
Editor, Better Business Bureau "Barometer"

THE BETTER Business Bureau's year-round effort at stamping out dishonest merchandising reaches an all high point during the Christmas season.

The files show that in spite of repeated warnings to customers, whatever the Christmas shopper will buy the Christmas charlatan will sell!

The Christmas charlatan is a seasonal swindler who arrives with each Yuletide, rents a store to hawk his wares, with his target the fool and his dollar.

Typical charlatan merchandise are boxed cigars that are nothing like the sample smokes the itinerant huckster gives away; the do-it-yourself toys that defy assembly, even if all parts are included; Christmas decorations that often will not pass fire law requirements and unknown brand appliances that carry no warranties.

Perfume, one of the most popular gift items, unfortunately lends itself to one of the most prevalent Christmas swindles. The charlatan goes from door to door peddling bottles of counterfeit perfumes. The bottles are pre-ticketed with fictitious 'list prices', going as high as $20. At best, the customer is getting toilet water at perfume prices. He might receive underarm lotion or just "smelly water."

THE "ALPHABET CODE" is another scheme. Bottles, similar to famous brands, are simply labeled with letters or numbers which the salesman says signifies high quality "bargain" scents. Thus "C-5" stands for Chanel No. 5, "A" is for Arpege, "M.S." means My Sin.

In order to be able to refer skeptical customers to a reputable nearby drug store, unscrupulous jobbers sometimes manage to unload their bottles of worthless merchandise at prices reflecting the inflated fictitious values.

The result is that the customer is cheated, the charlatan makes a big profit, and the pharmacist is left not only with worthless stock, but also with a reputation.

In these instances, the unrealistic price structure should be the tip-off to an alert pharmacist to stall the salesman and check through his local Better Business Bureau.

ANOTHER dubious article that finds itself on the Christmas shelves is the "jeweled Swiss watch." Many of these watches are better seen than heard. Their warranties, where they do exist, usually fail to mention "modest" service charges.

The Federal Trade Commission has obtained consent orders on a number of watch "manufacturers" whose claims for jeweled movements are more dazzling than what they deliver or who do not identify base metal cases and watchbands.

During the Christmas weeks there will be many unordered pens, Christmas cards, billfolds, key chains, neckties, name stickers and many other items sent with the request that you remit to aid the "cause," whatever it may be.

Recipients of unordered merchandise are under no obligation to acknowledge its receipt, to return it, to pay for it, keep, store or account for it in any way. However, do not use the merchandise!

Glue-Sniffing Count Lodged

A 16-year-old Daly City youth was arrested at his home on a glue-sniffing charge shortly before midnight Friday night.

Police said the youth's parents had called for an officer. The boy was released in the custody of his parents after being charged.

The formal charge was danger of leading a lewd and immoral life," which police said was a cover-all count for offenses of this nature.

Save Us From Our 'Friends'

SAN MATEO COUNTY has extraordinarily friendly Bay Area neighbors. They will go to almost any length to save us from non-existent dangers. All they want in return is to take over the county and run it to suit themselves.

To accomplish this end, they have tried about everything in the political bag of tricks and have even added a few new ones. An example of this enterprise is an attempt to scare the dickens out of us by threatening earthquakes and then kindly rescue us by procuring state legislation for a San Francisco Bay Conservation and Development Commission which would protect us from earth tremors.

This would be done by simply stopping all progress along the bayfront of San Mateo County and preserving us from the folly of building anything on filled land where such building just might be damaged by an earthquake if there was a 'quake.

It would also have the salutary effect of stopping the flight of industry and commerce from San Francisco and Oakland (which, of course, are free from all earthquake danger) to San Mateo County.

THIS KINDLY GESTURE is tied with "Saving the Bay" which, it appears, is also in dire danger of losing its noisome and unlovely mudflats, and some small portion of its useless shoal waters along the shore. It is, perhaps, unfair to note that bleeding-heart bay savers want to preserve mosquito hatcheries, some minnows, and some mudholes, but totally ignore the obvious corollary of this which is "To hell with the human beings, the industries, and the commerce, which population explosion and progress has brought to the shores of the bay."

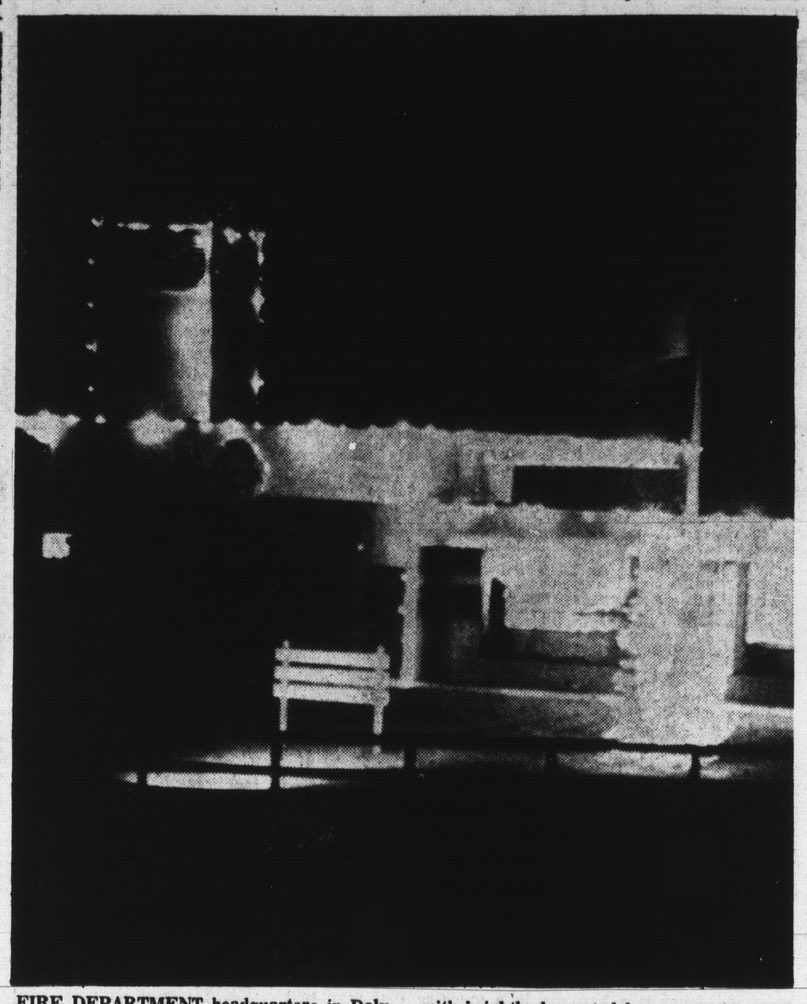
The truth, of course, is that our friendly and much concerned neighbors are not really worried about the bay, about earthquakes, about "greenbelts," about "ticky-tacky," or any other scarecrows that they keep dreaming up annually.

All they really want is a regional government for the Bay Area with political control reserved to themselves so they can set up new taxes and cut up new melons. It is a juicy prospect and it always has been.

IT WILL BE NOTED that the name of this proposed new regional government is "The San Francisco Bay Conservation and Development Commission." The "conservation" part of this is the method of taking over control. The "development" part is the looting to follow.

We hate to seem ungrateful to such kindly meant efforts, but San Mateo County would prefer to keep its own autonomy and mind its own business. It will be up to our legislators, and to those of other bay counties it is proposed to gobble up, to spike this latest "take-over" scheme in the legislature

Fire Department Finery



FIRE DEPARTMENT headquarters in Daly City boasts a glittering Christmas face this holiday season. The building on Lake Merced Boulevard north of Alemany Boulevard, is brightly lighted each evening, vying with with brightly-decorated homes nearby in the city's Westlake area. A Christmas tree on the headquarters front lawn is a focal point of the department's decorations.

What Santa Could Bring

Don Miller

"CHRISTMAS IS coming, the goose is getting fat. Please put a penny in the old man's hat." Or something like that.

Anyways, whether the old bird is putting on weight or not isn't what we're wondering about this morning. Rather, we're intrigued about what North County folk would like to see in their Yuletide hats after Santa has brushed off the chimney soot.

We have a few curbstone guesses about those Christmas dreams and they run something like this:

In Daly City, the gentlemen who steer the municipal ship of state would be delighted to see a neatly bound copy of a new zoning ordinance, duly approved and in effect, sticking out of their Christmas fedoras.

It would be an ordinance that had received a final green light only after a series of hearings at which a LARGE outpouring of the citizenry—as well as builders — had voiced their sentiments.

Or, barring that, these gentlemen wouldn't exactly turn down a sheaf of architectural drawings and a packet of legal papers, both indicating that all the attendant problems of building a new municipal home had been solved and that the Civic Center needed only the breaking of ground to get underway.

AS FOR CHRISTMAS at 101 Lincoln Boulevard, GHQ for the Jefferson Elementary School District, the folks over there could be expected to dance a merry jig if bulging from the Yuletide hat was a communique from the state allocations board, saying that they could tear down Woodrow Wilson School after all and put up a spanking new structure instead.

Of couse, the JESD people would know they were enjoying a precedent and that Santa Claus in Sacramento could be expected to be swamped by a deluge of similar requests before the holiday season rolled around again next year.

Meanwhile, over in their Westlake Shopping Center offices, those who guide the Jefferson High School District along would probably declare a school holiday if their Christmas hat just possibly contained:

1. A court ruling in favor of the district's arguments against the proposal that coaches and some other personnel receive extra pay for after school duties.

2. A school unification plan, somehow approved by both voters and the state education board, that did NOT split the district in half, in thirds, in quarters, etc., etc.

ON PACIFICA'S shores, Laguna Salada School District brass could be forgiven if they hopefully set out an extra large Christmas bonnet for Santa's consideration in hopes he'd see fit to fill it with any one of a raft of gifts.

Like a rejection on the part of district residents of the current attempt to recall members of the board.

Or perhaps a new policy that would set down a guideline for the observance of Christmas in classrooms that would meet the approval of everybody—from Christmas traditionalist to Christmas scrooge.

Or maybe a letter from the chamber of commerce, gleefully reporting that Pacifica had landed a potpourri of industries that would, at long last, give the school district a hefty tax base on which to stand.

Down the street in city hall, Pacifica's city fathers would consider it cause for celebration if their holiday hat bulged with plans guaranteed to shore up the city's shores and give Pacifica the appearance of a West Coast Riviera—and the means to pay for it all.

Or if Santa couldn't find the plans, a good substitute, all would readily agree, would be an iron-clad guarantee from the West Bay Transit Authority that whatever transit plan the county finally came up with would be an absolute boon to Pacificans. And with free transfers to boot.

OVER ON the other side of the North County map, the Christmas derby in the foyer of South San Francisco's City Hall would be loudly cheered if it held a peace pipe, just smoked by warring factions in the Westborough Water District.

Or instead of the pipe, just as loud a huzzah if Santa would leave a telegram from the airport people, announcing that a revolutionary jet craft had been tested that would allow planes to zoom straight-up at the end of a runway—rather than over the city's environs.

The school district folks would be getting in some cheering of their own, meanwhile, if their Yuletide beret was wrapped around a document, officially declaring that South San Francisco had become a full-fledged member of the San Mateo Junior College District—sans the difficulties of CSM's unissued bonds.

Or if that proved too legalistic for Santa to carry, he'd be just as popular this year if he left a letter from the Serramonte crowd, proclaiming that the shopping center planned north of Hickey Boulevard (in Jeff High School district land) would be built, instead, south of the boulevard (in S. S. F. land).

NOW, THAT'S quite a few Christmas hats for Santa to fill Friday and we think most North County folk will forigve him if he can't fill them all.

For after all, he'll be back again next year and maybe—just maybe—he'll find room in that sports model sleigh for the rest of the goodies. Of course, if that happens, everybody will have to scrounge up a bigger size hat.

Or has that been done already for this year?

North County Notebook

Christmas Is For Children

Ron Bates

CHRISTMAS IS for children. This has become more and more evident to me in the past two years since we (my wife and I) have had two of our own. The oldest, Yvette, is about two and a half; the youngest, Michelle, is 14 months.

It used to be that I could look forward to a nice sweater, a sports jacket or a pair of good quality slacks from Mrs. Santa's pack. Now I think I have one of the largest selections of ties in the North County, built up just since the children were born.

Christmas used to catch us by surprise. All of a sudden it was tomorrow and we'd still have gifts to buy. It's not the same with kids. They haven't even digested the turkey at Thanksgiving before they start talking about Santa Claus.

My wife, Marilyn, was no help either this year. She began going to a holiday class sponsored by the Daly City Recreation Department back in October and things like my beer stein from Germany were relegated to the storage chest to make room for holiday candles.

We have so many candles around the house now, PG&E could go out of business and we wouldn't notice it for a couple of years. But the house looks so holiday-ish now, she claims.

THEN CAME the tree. We debated the pros and cons of getting a small tree and putting it on the dining room table, thereby foregoing all holiday company, or getting a large tree to put near the window.

We compromised by getting a medium-sized tree and placing it on an end table near the window. To protect the poor thing, we had to re-arrange the whole living room so that our two slat benches, an end table and various assorted lamps now form sort of a barricade.

Nevertheless, the kids, (if they stretch) can just about touch it if they try hard. (Which they do.)

NO CHRISTMAS is complete without a visit to Santa Claus—or as my eldest calls him, Santa Clock.

We've established sort of a custom by having the kids' pictures taken with Santa each year. It's a custom that may end pretty quick if I keep having problems.

Two years ago, we took Yvette to see a professional Santa at one of the large department stores where you pay a fortune for the picture.

Everything was fine until Santa tripped the foot switch controlling the camera. Yvette, then only six months, jumped about six inches, lost her balance and grabbed onto the nearest thing for safety.

Unfortunately, it was Santa's beard.

The long line of children behind us at first were disappointed to see Santa's bare chin exposed. Then they laughed as the beard sprung loose from Yvette's hand and snapped back giving him a good lick in the chops.

LAST YEAR, we tried to take our own picture with yours truly in a borrowed Santa's outfit. I couldn't pose and take the picture at the same time—so the job fell to Marilyn.

Not being used to my camera, she got the most beautiful pictures of my shoes, the living room lamp, the ashtray on the coffee table and a number of other things.

This year, we tried another method. We went to a local Santa and I took my own camera. It didn't come off too bad.

When we got there, Santa was busy trying to disengage a slightly used and sticky candy cane from his flowing white beard. It had been inadvertently deposited there by a previous occupant of his lap.

Finally, he was successful and with a hearty ho-ho he took both of our kids on his lap and put on his best Christmas manner to get them to smile.

We had difficulty getting Michelle to look at the camera, though. She seemed very intent on retrieving the remaining particles of candy cane in Santa's beard.

After five very frustrating minutes and with the help of my wife and some sympathic mothers, we were able to distract her from what appeared to be a dedicated cause and another picture was added to the family album.

I'M AFRAID that next year it's going to be more difficult. Already I'm getting the question, "Santa Clock, too?" from Yvette as she spots the red-suited gentleman in other stores, on telephone poles and in store windows.

Fortunately, I'll have a year to think up a good explanation.

The Marquee

An Ace Up His Sleeve

Barbara Bladen

ONE OF THE biggest questions concerning the future of our distinguished permanent tent theatre operations on the Peninsula is what are they going to do when they've run out of popular musicals.

There are only so many commercially feasible shows that will draw on a mass appeal basis. Granted there are hundreds of good shows that never toured away from Broadway. But, for obvious reasons, no practical minded producer would take the chance too early in his theatre's existence.

Danny Dare, with the wizardry of a theatrical Midas, has a winning ace up his sleeve for next season at Circle Star Theatre. "We said we'd do originals and have been reading scripts for a long while. Sammy Lewis (his partner) and I think we have a potential hit lined up that may eventually end up on Broadway."

Although he wouldn't divulge the story, he admits it has already been a Broadway play and a movie and has been written into a musical version by screen writers and lyricists from Hollywood who have already won three Oscars for other shows.

THE PIXIE producer cties "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes" as a similar example of a show that began as a play, was transformed onto celluloid and ended up a musical. All three were big box office successes.

"Producing an original is a tremendously big job," Dare explained. "We can't just write to New York, as is the usual procedure, and say send us the orchestrations. We'll have to have costumes and sets designed and made, start from scratch."

San Carlos will then become a "tryout" town just like New Haven or Philadelphia. The Bay Area critics will be seeing a show in advance of their colleagues on the East coast and it will put the Peninsula in a theatrically prominent national position.

THE OPERATION of a permanent theatre-in-the-round theatre such as Circle Star is more complicated than it appears to the public. There are at least six major unions and "the big one in Washington, D. C.," as Dare refers to the government.

The box office must clear $50,000 a week to break even and that is much more than any Broadway theatre makes in a week, except for shows like "Hello Dolly," "Funny Girl," or "Golden Boy," according to which are the big hits of the season. But there's usually never more than three theatres at one time that top the $50,000 a week mark.

Consider, too, that there are twice as many seats in San Carlos than at any Broadway theatre and the local tickets are nearly half the price less. There are 200 employes including actors, musicians, and house management at Circle Star besides.

The Book Shelf

By SAMUEL CHANDLER
Daly City Librarian

THIRTY THOUSAND photographs were screened before 221 were selected for publication in "Our San Francisco" by the Diablo Press of Berkeley.

The pictures thus included represent the work of seven artists and are grouped into seven sections each accompanied by a text that was prepared by a noted writer.

The first chapter, "The Bay," contains photographs by Michael Bry and words by Harold Gilliam.

The other chapters are: "Shapes of the City" with the work of Ernest Braum and Herb Caen; "We Live Here," pictures by Phiz Mozesson and text by Art Hoppe; "The Working Day," containing Jacqueline Paul's pictures and Kenneth Rexroth's writing; "The Night," by Jerry Stoll and Ralph J. Gleason; "Captions," with photography by Bildtexte and words by Titulos; "Legends," by a photographer named Titoli and a writer who signs his name in Chinese.

EACH SECTION adds to an over-all concept that holds that nature and man have combined to make San Francisco a city of warmth and charm, a place of neighborhoods, parks, and family life; the home of coffee drinkers, commuters, secretaries, models, ballerinas, clerks, executives, bartenders, priests and especially children.

It is a big book (12x9) with each picture enlarged enough to please the reader.

In each section, the text precedes the photographs. The texts are brief and pithy. Each seems like a picture in itself.

For example—"Night starts new—like every dawn—with smells and pictures and life clean in its own night-shadow way. Hiding the grime and the dust."

This book may be the answer to what to give Grandfather or Junior or someone else whose Christmas gift is a problem.

Something New Boosts Morale

George Whitesell

SOMETHING NEW around the house is always a lift to family spirits, no matter how large or small it may be.

Large things, of course, cost more and create more excitement because almost nothing is more exciting than spending money over and above the ordinary routine.

Gifts, however, do just as much for morale and sometimes more.

Because if there is any one thing that creates more excitement than spending money—it is getting something without expense.

By the very nature of things, the new acquisition that ranks highest is rarely a gift.

Topping the list of thrilling new possessions, beyond any question, is a new home.

And about the only time a new home is ever a gift is when well-fixed parents can afford to dower a newly-married couple with the equivalent of the traditional rose-covered cottage.

And it is a little questionable how exciting this can be, for a bride and groom are already excited with the brand-new possession of each other.

AT ANY RATE, this is a matter we need not worry about. Few parents have the scratch to bestow a home upon their newlywed progeny.

But a new home gained by dint of hard-saved dollars, and probably by a mortgage that seems larger than the national debt, is a wonderful thing for the whole family for a long, long time.

The thrill likely lasts longer for older folks than it does for young ones. A couple that has worked for years to make a dream come true will never stop enjoying that dream when it comes true.

There are also a lot of sub-features to the excitement of a new home. Generally there is a new stove, a new refrigerator, and, maybe, that great wonder, an automatic dishwasher to lend additional glamor and sustain the excitement. New furniture, rugs, and draperies, too, are a source of pleasure for a long time.

NEXT TO a new home, getting a new automobile is likely the greatest morale-builder.

No one can resist the excitement of a gleaming new car with all of its bright-work shining in the sun, a fascinating dash-board array of gadgets, new and unsullied upholstery, and the envious looks of the neighbors.

And when the family all piles in for the first ride of satin-smooth satisfaction behind a purring new engine—this is sheer, unalloyed bliss and the feeling lasts for quite a while.

At least until it is involved in the first fender-bender, or the payments get a bit troublesome.

NEXT IN ORDER for most people, the ownership of a new television set is a 90-day wonder.

This is not because it is the most important item in the house, but because it will get the most attention. In fact the whole family may sit glued in front of it for days marvelling at how much better it is than the old one.

If it happens to be a color set this is almost sure to happen.

But even a spanking new black and white set can have similar effect. A family that hasn't been watching TV more than a couple of hours a week will suddenly find themselves sitting in front of the picture tube for hours each night — just as they did when they got their first set.

FROM THIS POINT the pride and excitement in new possessions is likely to be more specialized. Mother can go into raptures over her new automatic washing machine, but it is difficult for the rest of the family to reach this pitch.

Dad may be delirious over his new power mower, but the rest of the family shares his pleasure—not the mower.

New furniture interests the women more but it takes father to fully appreciate a new furnace.

Lastly, new clothing has individual appeal. Mama likes to see Papa looking nice, and vice versa, but the excitement is for the wearer. New clothes and shoes for the kids are dandy, too, but this feeling is always tempered by the sobering thought that they'll need new outfits again soon. But, whatever we get, it's great to enjoy the glow while it lasts.

THIS WEEK'S column is the result of having cleared one's desk of an accumulation of odd little notes on odd little scraps of paper that too closely resembled litter to escape continued notice of one's order-oriented wife.

But first, we must succumb to a tradition that we traditionally shun but one that no self-respecting columnist can ignore forever. So here is our first annual list of Bowl Game selections:

Sun Bowl: December 26 at El Paso, Georgia vs. Texas Tech. We go along with the experts here who install Georgia a 5-point favorite. But watch out for the upset!

Rose Bowl: January 1 at Pasadena, Michigan vs. Oregon State. How can we deny an 11-point favorite like Michigan?

Sugar Bowl: January 1 at New Orleans, Syracuse vs. LSU. Louisiana State, ranked sixth, is a 6-point favorite. But we see it as a virtual dead heat, going along with LSU only because it's played in their territory.

Cotton Bowl: January 1 at Texas, Nebraska vs. Arkansas. Arkansas rated the second best team in the nation, is figured a touchdown better than the Cornhuskers. But we like seventh-ranked Nebraska in a squeaker.

Orange Bowl: January 1 at Miami, Alabama vs. Texas. 'Bama the top-ranked team in the nation, by a touchdown over the fifth best team.

Gator Bowl: December 31 at Jacksonville, Oklahoma vs. Florida State. Oklahoma isn't what it used to be and Florida State made the Top Ten for the first season in several years. Florida figures a field goal victor.

Blue Bonnet Bowl: December 19 at Houston, Mississippi vs. Tulsa. This will have been played by the time we reach print. Ole' Miss figures by a couple of touchdowns but Tulsa is the team that set just about every passing record in the book with the fabulous Jerry Rhome at the helm. And you can't easily dismiss a team that averaged 40 points a game — no matter what the competition. We choose Mississippi, with trepidation.

North-South Game: December 6 at Miami. The North is due.

East-West Shrine Game: January 2 at Kezar Stadium. The West has more All-Americans — and besides, we're biased.

NFL Professional Championship: December 27, Baltimore vs. Cleveland. Baltimore breezed, Cleveland wheezed. It's the Colts.

NOW TO the trivia—or should we say—the other trivia:

Fans sometimes look down their noses at quarterbacks who seem to complete nothing but short passes. Has it ever occurred to these fans that the reason QB's are able to and must do this is because they're so dangerous with the bomb that opponents are willing to "give" them the short gains?

BILLY KILMER is one of those all-around college football players whose very talent hampers them when they reach the pros because they have never learned to specialize.

FOR SOME REASON, old pros seem to be more valuable in professional football than they are in pro baseball.

The football Giants, for instance, couldn't win a thing until they got a couple of guys who should have been retired, Charley Conerly and Y. A. Tittle, and several other "oldsters," and folded this year when they decided to "go with youth."

WHY MUST writers always feel compelled to immediately compare unproven youngsters with greats of the past?

Even before his great Big Game, Stanford sophomore quarterback Dave Lewis was being compared with Jackie Robinson.

WE'RE GLAD to see the 49er's are finally cured of the "Joe Perry Syndrome," a malady which, because they picked Joe up from the Alameda Navy football team, caused them to beat the bushes for years in hopes of coming up with another sleeper of a running back.

Now that they've resigned themselves to signing Big Ten running backs, they may find that the Perrys and Unitases will take care of themselves.

A PRO TEAM will probably never go undefeated because of a justified unwillingness, having cinched a division title, to risk its stars by going all out to win meaningless games with the championship of the whole circuit still at stake.

RANDOM THOUGHTS: Who would have thought, when we were schoolmates of K. C. Jones at Portola Junior High, watching him play lightweight basketball (on a student body card), that we'd someday be shelling out $4.50 to watch him play NBA basketball? . . . Former S. F. State Little All American tackle Floyd Peters last week made the detensive squad of The Sporting News' All-Pro Eastern Division team and was chosen to play in the Pro Bowl . . . South San Francisco's Greg Jones, who finished third in Northern California in rushing and scoring, was named last week to a metropolitan daily's second string All-Northern California squad and the first team All-North Coast Squad. He also made the Post's All-County team, and was chosen Back of the Year.

Warrior tackle Joe DelCarlo made that metropolitan paper's second team All-North Coast squad . . . Westmoor's Butch Elston ranked fourth in Northern California passing statistics . . . Jefferson's Rich Cuadra also ranked high in scoring . . . George Wilson could have at least allowed Hugh McElhenny a token appearance in his last pro game, especially since it was already wrapped up, against the 49ers, and televised to the coast. There was a time when Wilson would have considered it an honor to tote The King's cleats, if it would have meant having Hugh on his team . . . Notre Dame's John Huarte, who has taken all the Player of the Year trophies, couldn't even make a majority of the All-American teams . . . San Francisco's rising light heavyweight, Norm Letcher, is a student at San Francisco State. We wonder if any wag will dare use that information to equip Norm with "an educated jab."

NEW COACH STEPS IN

Coaches Tab Warriors as Top Threat

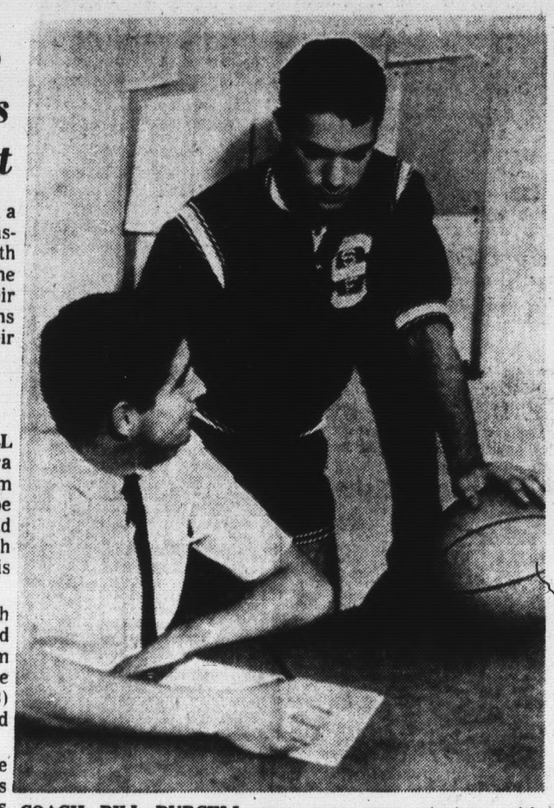
(This is the fourth in a series of articles on how basketball coaches in the North Peninsula League view the upcoming season and their appraisal of the strengths and weaknesses of their clubs.)

By RON BATES

COACH BILL PURCELL stepped up from the Terra Linda (of Marin) B-team coach position and into Joe Schroeder's shoes as head basketball coach of the South San Francisco Warriors this year.

He inherited (1) a tough practice schedule, (2) a good share of the Warrior team that won a total of only five games all last season and (3) an all-league forward named Greg Jones.

In six practice games, he has parlayed these factors into four wins and two losses against some tough teams and has earned the "favorite" role prediction from his fellow North Peninsula Legue coaches.



COACH BILL PURCELL goes over game strategy with South San Francisco Warrior forward Greg Jones, an all-NPL selection last year. Purcell has taken over Joe Schroeder's job as head coach of the B-Street team this year and Jones is a key cog in a machine that may take the NPL championship. (Post-Times Photo)

JONES, who burned up the league in a football uniform, seems to be carrying over his scoring abilities to the basketball court.

The six-footer has racked up a total of 107 points in the first five games for a 21-point average. The scoring output is the result of a 46 per cent shooting average.

He was one of the few bright spots in a sad basketball season for the Warriors last year. Besides being the only sophomore selected to the All-NPL team, he was third in league scoring with 143 points.

Keeping company with Jones at the other starting forward slot is Ron Benetti who joined his teammates at mid-season last year and played well enough to earn an honorable mention in the all-league selections.

Benetti has been backing up Jones as a scoring threat by popping in 44 per cent of his shots at a 16 points-a-game clip.

WITH BENETTI and Jones piling up most of the heavy scoring, the rebounding and defensive chores have gone to the Warriors' biggest man at 6-4, Jim Henry.

Backing up Henry, is Joe Smith, 6-2. Smith is up from the B-team.

At the guard sports are Chick Barrett and either John Moro or Kevin Pickett, veterans who are sharing the playmaker role.

"We've got guards of good size," Purcell said, "who help out on the rebounding and contribute to the scoring."

Purcell also is expecting help from veteran Dale Curry, senior Jay Marianti and Sam Gregory — up from the B-team.

THE TEAM'S scoring ability thus far has been the strongest factor in the Warriors' winning ways. Their team average has been a consistent 47 percent. In the first five practice games, they have scored an average of 73 points a game.

They topped San Mateo 73-71, Burlingame 94-80, Lincoln 85-75 and the Alumni 60-49. Most of the time, they have bounced back from half time deficits of 10 and 12 points, Purcell said.

In their one "bad game", Purcell said, the Warriors lost to Mission, 62-53.

The Mission loss pointed up the team's weakest point —a lack of height in the front line.

"If we're unable to rebound," he said, "we can't fast break."

LIKE MOST small teams, the Warriors have good speed and can use the fast break effectively.

In most cases, if the fast break is stopped, Purcell said, the Warriors have the shooters to hit from the outside.

Purcell will be in a good position for next near — regardless of this season's outcome. He has ten juniors on the team and four of them are among his top six players.

Sizing up the league, Purcell said both Daly City teams, Westmoor and Jefferson, look like the teams to beat.

He said he plans to keep an eye though, on El Camino.

The Colts, on a given day, could be strong enough to beat anyone, he warned.

The Warriors will open the league season January 15 at Terra Nova. Before that they have practice tilts against Aragon, today, and Mills January 5.

Tigers Bow In Tilt at Santa Clara

Ravenswood made the winner's bracket in the annual Buscher tournament, but Terra Nova couldn't quite get there.

The reason is that the Trojans dumped the Tigers, 55-35, in the opening round of play for both teams at the Santa Clara classic.

Coach Tom Crane's Trojans meet Blackford in the 8:30 p.m. contest tonight, while the Tigers take on Santa Clara in a 5:30 p.m. game.

Ravenswood moved out to a 27-16 halftime lead and was never headed. Joe McNair paced the Trojan quint with 15 points. Jim Bresnahan was high for the losing Tigers with 10 points.

CSM Cagers Defeat Frosh At San Jose

If the College of San Mateo basketball team doesn't do it in the first half, they'll do it in the second.

The Bulldogs, suffering a severe cold spell in the first half, rallied and then ran off to a 74-60 victory over the San Jose State College frosh at the CSM gym last Tuesday.

Trailing by five points during most of the first 20 minutes, the locals rallied just before the intermission buzzer to cart a slim 32-30 advantage off the court at halftime.

A strong second half, paced by Denny O'Brien, Mark Jorgenson and Dick Drake, sent the Bulldogs flying out to their fifth straight win of the young cage campaign.

Spade Ends a 'Good Specimen'

When Dona Maurino stepped out of her home at 251 Alta Loma Avenue in Daly City shortly after 8:30 a.m., Wednesday, she could have been excused for believing she had just stepped into a zoo.

For there, comfortably coiled on her front lawn was a rather large snake—the likes of which she had never seen outside a zoo.

She called police and officers Robert Crooker and Arthur Linhares responded. With a spade, they promptly severed the reptile in two.

Later, Dr. Earl Herold, curator of the Steinhart Aquarium and a resident of Daly City, said the snake, about three feet long, appeared to be a Yellow-Bellied Racer—a type of garter snake common in these parts.

However, further investigation by a member of Dr. Herold's staff disclosed that the reptile was a "rat snake," a common garden snake found in the East.

Dr. Herold theorized the snake had been somebody's pet and had either escaped or been set loose.

"It's too bad they cut it up," he said ruefully. "It would have been a good specimen for the aquarium."

One Hurt in 3-Car Crash

One person was injured in a three-car collision shortly after 6 p.m. Friday, on Alemany Boulevard, east of Park Plaza Drive, in Daly City.

Helena Moran, 47, of 275 Park Plaza, a passenger in a car driven by Robert W. Moran, 25, of the same address, was treated at Kaiser Foundation Hospital in South San Francisco for minor bruises.

Police identified the drivers of the other two cars as Harvey W. Hoover, 32, of 1179 Manzanita Drive, Pacifica, and Joseph M. Zanotti, 52, of 11 Cadiz Court Pacifica.

Urge Inhalators for Ambulances in County

A savings in lives as well as money could be made by installing resuscitator equipment, as well as inhalator devices, in all San Mateo County ambulances.

So says John A. Marchi, South San Francisco Fire Chief and head of a county Fire Chiefs' committee campaigning for resuscitators to be required in all ambulances.

The extra equipment, he estimates, would cost $250 or more per ambulance, but would save lives and eliminate the need for firemen and fire department equipment to travel to hospitals in ambulances.

Only one of the three ambulance services operating in the South San Francisco area now is equipped with resuscitators, as well as inhalators, he says. The resuscitators help a person to breathe, whereas inhalators merely provide oxygen.

Often, a heart attack victim, or someone suffering from shock, is so seriously stricken that he or she cannot safely make the trip to a hospital without continued use of a resuscitator. In other cases, a less seriously stricken person will develop into a resuscitator case while en route to the hospital.

This means, said Chief Marchi, that a fireman must go along in the ambulance, keeping the person breathing with a resuscitator.

Another fireman must take a car or firetruck and follow along to bring the lifesaver back.

"This is not only South San Francisco," he pointed out, "but all the cities in the county.

"Last year, our department answered 201 resuscitator calls. This year, we have had 225 already.

"In terms of money, this adds up to quite an investment in men and equipment, and it means tying up equipment at a time when it might be needed elsewhere.

"Beyond that, though, it means lives.

"Quiet often, a person is revived, too weak to survive and breathe for himself, even with oxygen. He needs continued service of a resuscitator to keep him breathing healthily until a doctor can attend him at a hospital."

S.S.F. Police, Teachers Visit Correction Facility

South San Francisco police officers and school teachers joined forces recently for a visit to the California Medical Facility.

The two groups, headed by John Fabbri, Chief of Police, and Emanuel Damonte, principal of the Los Cerritos School, were guests of Patrick Smythe, special agent for the California Department of Corrections.

"The South San Francisco Police Department, under the direction of Fabbri, has long been interested in the rehabilitation programs conducted at the medical facility," said Smythe. Damonte, formerly associated with juvenile probation work, expressed that school teachers can benefit in their handling of young students through a better understanding of the treatment aspect of penal institutions today.

The guests heard an informative talk by E. C. Brawley, correctional captain at the prison hospital. Brawley covered the development of penalogy in the California system from the early days of sheer punishment to the present concentration of treatment and rehabilitation.

Here's wishing everyone the best of the gay Holidays!

Louanne's Datebook

By LOUANNE HEATH

CHRISTMAS WEEK arrived with the brittle crispness that makes noses shine a cheery, cherry red and makes ears and fingers tingle sharply. It is the kind of week when the chill of the air causes our breath to come forth in little frosted clouds while lungs ache from the bite of the breeze and the strain of exertion as we race from one store to another purchasing the last minute items we planned to have bought weeks and weeks ago.

Christmas is almost here and the Christian world is preparing for one of its most elaborate celebrations as the happy and holy day draws closer. It is a time of year when the press of household duties, holiday preparations, shopping trips, special programs, children home from school and church services make greater and greater demands on time. But, despite its pressures, it is a frantic, frustrating, fantastic, fun time of year and one I hope you all savor joyously and fully.

Among those being welcomed locally is Christine Enberg, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rudy Enberg, of South San Francisco.

Homecoming is traditionally a part of Christmas and many families are reunited this week for the first time in months.

Christine is in her freshman year at Lewis and Clark University in Oregon where her current interests are leading her toward a career in education.

MAJOR MARIANNE DEL CARLO of the Army Nurse Corps is enjoying the warmth of the hearth in the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Salvator Del Carlo of Skyline Drive.

Major Del Carlo has been stationed at Tripler General Hospital in Hawaii for the past 14 months. She accepted the island post after having left Korea where she was one of the nurses assigned to care for South Korea's Syngman Rhee, during one of his critical illnesses. She was awared a special citation for her part in caring for the statesman and was given a personal gift of gratitude by her distinguished patient's wife.

Since her graduation from San Francisco's St. Joseph Hospital's School of Nursing and since enlisting in the nurse corps, she has served at various bases in the United States, Europe and the Orient.

Since her return on leave for the Christmas holidays, Major Del Carlo has been the guest of honor at a buffet dinner party in the home of her sister, Mrs. Mario Mangini of Westlake. Thursday evening, the family will gather in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Del Carlo for a Christmas Eve party. Also planned is a farewell party on December 26 when Mr. and Mrs. Otto Kleist, cousins of the major, will entertain family and friends in their home in Alameda.

Major Del Carlo anticipates another year of service at Tripler Hospital before she will be assigned to a stateside post.

MR. AND MRS. JOHN MADROSEN have welcomed home their son, John, and his wife and children for the Christmas festivities.

The younger Madrosens are celebrating Christmas in the Bay Area for the first time in six years. They make their home in Oregon.

WHILE AMERICAN students are closing their books, packing their bags and heading home for two weeks of parties, visiting, and mother's cooking, there is an ever growing number of college students who are too far from home and their native land to spend Christmas with their families.

The foreign students are occasionally apprehensive about prolonged holidays, which leave them at loose ends in a strange land. But special programs have been established for these young people and as a result, an ever-increasing percentage of them can be seen touring the United States learning about America first hand and teaching Americans about their countries. Sarah Martinez, a Fullbright scholar who has been attending San Francisco State and living in Westlake the past few months, was among the bus load of Fulbright students who left the Bay Area Saturday to visit Southern California and then cut across the desert to the Grand Canyon to celebrate Christmas in one of this nation's most awe-inspiring spots.

Sarah's mother, Mrs. Ester Martinez of Mexico City, had planned to accompany the group and came to Westlake early this month to prepare for the trip. But an untimely illness forced her to return to Mexico City last weekend.

The tour will return December 29 and the students will finish their studies here and prepare to move to the next college on their agendas. Sarah is scheduled to leave for the University of Oklahoma January 19.

WHILE LOCAL exchange students are visiting Arizona, a group from Seattle visited our town Wednesday and were guests of honor at the Westlake Senior Citizens' meeting in the Community Baptist Church.

According to Mrs. Beatrice Batz, club president, students from Turkey, the Philippines, Canada and Nigeria delivered short talks about their countries and then sang some of their native songs for the members of the Senior Citizens' Club.

Tomorrow, Mrs. Batz and a number of the ladies of the club will serve a Christmas luncheon to approximately 60 members. The festive meal will be followed by an exchange of gifts, games and Christmas carols.

SCOUTMASTER BOB SOPER and Assistant Scoutmaster Charles Culley presided over a combined Christmas party and Court of Honor for Scout Pack 63 Monday evening.

The party, held in M. Pauline Brown School, also included the presentation of a special program.

The Cubs of Pack 63 celebrated Christmas last Thursday evening when approximately 30 boys and their families met in Olympia School for cake and ice cream and a gift exchange.

Morris Liston, cubmaster, was master of ceremonies.

COURT ST. MARY 1155, Catholic Daughters of America, welcomed Santa Claus to its annual Christmas party, also held this past Thursday, in the Our Lady of Perpetual Help parish hall.

Mrs. Fred Wettstein Jr. was chairman of the program, which included dancing, a gift exchange and community singing.

Unusual Scholarship Is Urged by S.S.F. Group

An unusual type of scholarship—to be given to a student who is not getting good grades—has been suggested to College of San Mateo by a group of anonymous South San Francisco fund donors.

The grant would be a memorial to the late Miss Sharon McCarthy of San Mateo, a CSM coed who died early this year of Hodgkin's disease.

"Sharon was a very fine student," said Charles M. Devonshire, psychology instructor to whom the proposal was addressed, "but these people believe scholarship money can be put to just as good use in motivating needy and promising students who are not living up to their potentials as in aiding those who are."

The South San Franciscans sent a $50 check to the College Psychology Club, of which Devonshire is the faculty advisor, for starting such a "Sharon McCarthy Financial Aid Fund." They recommended it be restricted to persons with less than a "C" average.

Mrs. Edra Robertson of 134 Manzanita Avenue, South San Francisco, a CSM psychology student who was instrumental in interesting the donors in the project, said some 20 of her neighbors were involved.

In addition to the aid fund, a "Sharon McCarthy Memorial Collection" of books and other materials in the field of psychology is being started by the club in the campus library.

The initial contribution—approximately 50 volumes from Miss McCarthy's personal library—has been received from her parents, Air Force Lt. Col. and Mrs. F. W. McCarthy of 2060 New Brunswick Drive.

"We were all extremely fond of her," said Devonshire of Miss McCarthy, who was 23 years old at the time of her death. "Psychology was her main interest, and she had a real impact on the people on the campus who shared that interest.

Pacifica Moose Host Yule Party

Moose Lodge 1944 of Pacifica held a Christmas party for approximately 250 children Saturday in the Parish Hall of the Church of the Good Shepherd.

Chairman of the party was Paul Growski. Co-chairman was Joseph Paradise.

The lodge will hold a raffle drawing at the variety in Eureka Square Shopping Center Thursday at 2 p.m.

Sugar... 'n' Spice

By NELL NORTON

JUST TWO MORE days until the big day is here and I know you have all your gifts wrapped, arranged attractively under the tree and everything done so you can sit back and really enjoy this happy season. HA!

Unless you are different from everyone I know, you are still frantically rushing around looking for a gift for Uncle Horace and Auntie Mame and little cousin Elmer—who likes to blow up things. (How about a do-it-yourself atomic bomb kit for little Elmer?)

Well, no matter if you are all ready or if you are still frantically shopping, you will still have to plan meals for these busy days. Thanks to the California Beef Council, I have some recipes for entrees that will make your dinners easier. The first is called Teen-age Scramble but it will be as good for the whole family, from Dad to little brother, as for your teen-agers.

TEEN-AGE SCRAMBLE

1 lb. ground beef
1 small chopped onion
1 pkg. frozen spinach
1 small can mushroom slices or ¼ lb. sliced fresh mushrooms
6 well beaten eggs
3 tablespoons olive oil
Salt and pepper to taste

While the spinach is cooking, saute ground beef, onion and fresh mushrooms in olive oil. If canned mushrooms are used, add to skillet mixture with spinach when onions become transparent and beef has browned. Pour in beaten eggs, stirring until eggs become firm. Serves six.

A NICE POT ROAST is always a favorite in most families and this one has an exotic touch in spices. Served with rice, frozen peas and a tossed salad, it makes a delicious meal.

HAWAIIAN BEEF AND RICE

¾ lb. chuck, rump or sirloin tip roast
1 cup brown sugar
½ cup vinegar
½ cup water
2 onions, medium, chopped
1 teaspoon seasoned salt
1 clove garlic, minced
½ teaspoon cinnamon
⅛ teaspoon nutmeg
1 bay leaf

Combine the sugar, vinegar, water, onions, and seasonings and pour over the roast. Marinate in the refrigerator for 24 hours, turning several times. Cook the roast in the liquid, covered, at 325 degrees until tenderabout 2½ to 3 hours. Remove the roast to serving platter. The remaining juices may be served over rice.

IF YOUR CHRISTMAS dinner has been planned down and through the dessert, you may stop reading now for the next recipe won't interest you. But if you are still wondering what would be a nice dessert to serve after a filling dinner, this rainbow cake is just the thing for you. It takes a little time and preparation but the results are so spectacular that it is well worth the added effort.

RAINBOW CAKE

1 pkg. orange gelatin
1 pkg. lime gelatin
1 pkg. cherry gelatin
3 cups hot water
1½ cups cold water

Prepare each flavor gelatin separately, using one cup hot water and one-half cup cold water for each. Pour into separate 8x8x2-inch pans and chill until firm.

1 cup pineapple juice
¼ cup sugar
1 pkg. lemon gelatin
½ cup cold water

Combine pineapple juice and sugar and heat until sugar is dissolved. Remove from heat and dissolve lemon gelatin in the hot liquid. Add remaining one-half cup cold water and chill until syrupy.

1 cup graham cracker crumbs
¼ cup butter, melted
2 cups whipped cream

Mix graham cracker crumbs with melted butter and press crumb mixture smoothly over bottom of syrupy pineapple-lemon mixture. Cut the firm orange, lime and cherry gelatin into cubes about one-half-inch thick. Fold into the whipped cream mixture and pour into springform pan. Chill eight hours in refrigerator.

Remove sides of pan, leaving cake on bottom, and frost with additional whipped cream if desired. Serves 16 to 20.

60-Day S.S.F. Zone Freeze Now in Effect

A 60-day freeze on all rezonings was enacted last week by South San Francisco's Planning Commission in order to give planners time to restudy the city master plan.

So many rezoning requests have been coming into the planning office, Director Mrs. Anita Robertson reported, that enither the planners nor their two-man staff can keep a serious eye on the master plan and cope with all the details of maps and subdivision and planned unit growth.

The commission also approved a new policy or accepting subdivision maps, stating that these must be delivered to the planning office 20 days before publication deadlines, to give the staff time to study the plan.

Rezonings which are now under study will continue to go through, they agreed, but new plans must be held off for 60 days, and new plans must be submitetd according to the 20-day study period.

One of the projects which has caused this reaction is the planned unit development taking place at Westborough, the commission held over nine related items for further study.

On the shelf temporarily went Caesar-Callan Homes' request to rezone 10 acres of Monte Verde for apartments, a Jolly ing Realty planned unit use permit request, for Westborough Five, and a similar request for Westborough Three, and several related variance pleas.

The planners approved American Guild Homes' request for rear yard setback variances on 11 Westborough lots.

County's Transit Unit in Business; Budget Is Okayed

San Mateo County's "do it yourself" mass transit authority was a going agency this week following the first meeting of its board of commissioners.

The board elected officers, adopted a budget, made arrangements for its future meetings and started to worry about the Bay Area Rapid Transit District.

The West Bay Rapid Transit Authority, which at present consists only of San Mateo County, was formed this year, more than two years after the county was withdrawn from BARTD.

County supervisors said they voted to secede principally because they felt that the BARTD transit proposal for the county was merely a duplication of an existing mass transit system —The Southern Pacific commute service.

At a meeting last week Supervisor James V. Fitzgerald, a commission member, confessed that he is "disturbed" by BARTD's plans to build its system on wider gauge tracks than those used by Southern Pacific.

"This has been worrying me," Fitzgerald said, noting that the act creating the WBRTA specifies that the splinter district's fixed rail system must be "compatible" with BARTD's.

He suggested a meeting with BARTD directors, but Commissioner William Lawson, mayor of Menlo Park, said he had been told that the wide gauge system is an accomplished fact.

Supervisor William M. Werder, a board member, suggested that the act might be amended but County Manager E. R. Stallings, acting secretary of the new district, pointed out that the requirement of compatability pertains only if the authority should "construct" a fixed rail system.

"This would not preclude the use of Southern Pacific rails for transit on a contractural arrangement," Stallings said.

He acknowledged, however, that if this were done, there could be no interchangeability of equipment between the two districts.

Another member, Councilman Wallace Benson of Belmont, suggested that the authority should "start working on Santa Clara County." The act provides that Santa Clara County may join the West Bay district.

Lawson was elected chairman of the board of commissioners and Werder was named vice chairman. Mayor Michael DeBernardi of Daly City was elected secretary and County Treasurer A. H. Sagehorn was designated treasurer of the authority.

Life-Savers at Work

DALY CITY firemen practice using a life-saving "gun" that can shoot a thin line out to a boat or swimmer in distress. A heavier line is then attached to the thin line and can be pulled out from shore by the swimmer or a boat occupant. Practice took place at Thornton Beach with, left to right, Barry Griffin, Capt. Ward Albee and Capt. Richard May participating. In background is the Daly City Fire Department's emergency rescue truck. (Post-Times Photo)

Schedule for Playgrounds In D.C. Set

A new schedule of hours for playgrounds and recreational facilities in Daly City will go into effect during the Christmas vacation period.

Today and tomorrow the hours will be 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., and Thursday, 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Playgrounds will be closed December 25-27 and open from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. December 28 through December 31.

The Westmoor High School gymnasium will continue to be open in the evenings, except Thursday through Saturday, and December 28-January 1.

The War Memorial Community Center will be open evenings with the exception of Thursday and December 31-January 1.

Any variation of the schedule will be posted at the facility.

BB SHOT REPORTED

Benjamin M. Navarro of 121 East Vista Avenue, Daly City, reported to police over the weekend that someone had shot a BB through the windshield of his car, parked in front of his home.

Compliance With Fair Advice Seen

"Substantial" compliance with recommendations for sweeping changes in the structure and operation of the County Fair was foreseen last week by County Manager E. R. Stallings.

A special joint committee named last month to study problems of the fair, met in a closed session in Stalling's office.

The committee was appointed after the directors of the fair, as a group, failed to agree with all of the recommendations of a blue ribbon study commission, which included proposals to reduce the size of the fair board, limit terms of its members and hire a general manager to be the fair's top administrative officer.

Meeting with Stallings were St. George Lafitte, Gaston Periat and Ed Levesconte of the fair board, County Supervisors William Werder and James Fitzgerald, and Perry Bygdnes, representing the blue ribbon group.

TELEVISION SET STOLEN

The Town Motel at 3211 Geneva Avenue, Daly City, reported to police over the weekend that a television set had been stolen from a unit.

Historical Association Plans Fete

The San Mateo County Historical Association will mark the thirtieth anniversary of its founding with a dinner Friday, February 26, at the College of San Mateo, 1700 Hillsdale Boulevard, San Mateo.

Guest of honor at the dinner will be Dr. Frank M. Stanger, present executive secretary of the association and its founding president.

The Historical Association, founded in 1935 and shortly thereafter incorporated as a nonprofit corporation, now has a membership of over 500 persons interested in collecting and preserving data relative to county history.

To this end the association, under Dr. Stanger's leadership, established a small museum in 1941 to house such a collection and make it available to the public.

First opened in a small room at the old Baldwin Avenue campus of the Junior College, the museum now occupies an impressive building of its own on the campus of the College of San Mateo and is visited by more than 1,700 persons each month.

Dr. Stanger, author of several books on San Mateo County history, is now doing research for a book to be entitled, "Saw mill History of San Mateo County."

His most recent book, "South from San Francisco," published by the Historical Association, received a silver medal from the Commonwealth Club of California as the most outstanding book on California published in 1963.

Bright Lights Holiday Schedule

This week, Bright Lights will appear in San Mateo Times on Wednesday, December 23, instead of Friday, December 25. There will also be a special New Year's page on Wednesday, December 30. The regular column will be resumed Friday, January 8, 1965. A Merry Christmas to ALL!

"WHERE'S THIS GUY SANTA CLAUS?" — Fannie and Frank Torres, the Montara Beach Restaurant and Hotel team, rehearse their traditional Christmas morning visit to the family Christmas tree. From the looks of their outfits, the weather out Montara way is mighty "cool."

Preliminary CSM Campus Plans OK'd

Preliminary master plans for the new north and south county campuses of the College of San Mateo have been approved by the college board of trustees.

The action culminated several months of extensive study by the board of proposals submitted by the architects for the campuses — one at San Bruno, the other in the Farm Hill area between Redwood City and Woodside.

Architects now will proceed with more schematic planning for the campuses, the initial units of which are scheduled for completion by the fall of 1967.

All that remained for the board to do before approving the preliminary master plans was to hear the phasing schedule of the construction planning for the north county campus.

The campuses wll open initially with a capacity of 2,000 students, with the second phase increasing the capacity to 4,500, and the third and final phase increasing the capacity to the ultimate total of 8,000 students.

Personnel Board Upholds D.C. Fireman's Suspension

The Daly City Personnel Board Thursday upheld the 15-day suspension of a fireman for his refusal to take classes at the College of San Mateo last Spring.

The board ruled that Fire Chief Elmer Kennedy was correct in suspending fireman Edward P. O'Haire Jr., for disobeying a direct order to attend in-service training classes at the college.

The board last month upheld similar suspensions on hte same charge against firemen Ronald Angelot and John P. Harris Jr.

O'Haire was not present Thursday to plead his case and Thomas Doyle, a lawyer associated with O'Haire's legal counsel, asked for a continuance of the hearing.

The board indicated, however, when the original hearing was continued in November to December 17 that no further continuance would be granted.

In other business, the board held over discussion of a request from Police Chief Roland Petrocchi, asking that 20-year-old old applicants be permitted to take police exams.

Petrocchi said the applicants would not be employed, however, until they reached 21 years of age.

The board approved new duty statements for police officers, incorporating a new requirement that officers have two years of college education.

Work experience may be substituted on a year-for-year basis.

The board also approved employment lists covering maintenance man, street maintenance man and garage serviceman and heard several letters of commendation in behalf of policemen and firemen.

Coast Man Is Injured

Salvador Ramos Jr., 35, of 376 Monterey Road, Pacifica, suffered scalp and leg injuries about 2:30 Sunday morning when his auto knocked over a traffic signal standard at Mission and Bismark Streets in Daly City.

He was given emergency treatment at Kaiser Foundation Hospital in South San Francisco and transferred to Kaiser in San Francisco.

He told police he had lost control of his auto on wet pavement. Investigators said the auto ran against a telephone pole after knocking over the signal.

Blame Rain In Peninsula Accidents

Poor vision and slippery streets caused by last night's rain were blamed by Peninsula police departments Saturday for a rash of accidents in the county.

Sixteen accidents were recorded during the storm in South San Francisco, including one two-car crash at 11:11 p.m. in which five persons were injured.

Admitted to Peninsula Hospital after the accident were:

Robert Erickson, 22, 1124 Chula Vista, Burlingame, the driver of one auto, in satisfactory condition with lacerations of the face and scalp and contusions to the right ankle; his wife, Ardith Erickson, 23, in serious condition in the intensive care unit with lacerations to the face and right knee, abrasions to the chest and fractured ribs (she is six months pregnant, the hospital reported); Theodore Carver, 17, San Francisco, the driver of the other car, in serious condition in the intensive care unit with fractured ribs and a wounded left leg; Irvin Johnson Jr., 16, San Francisco, in serious condition in the intensive care unit, a head injury and lacerated elbow; and Thomas Villafuerte, 17, 445 Santa Barbara Avenue, Daly City, in satisfactory condition.

Police said witnesses told them Carver's auto was northbound on El Camino Real when it swerved into the southbound lane near Hickey Boulevard, crashing headon into Erickson's car.

Here are some other accident totals during the rain storm:

San Bruno, 6; Millbrae, 3; Burlingame, 4; and Pacifica, 8.

In a San Mateo accident shortly after 11 Friday night two persons were slightly injured and treated at Mills Hospital.

They are Kathy Sonne, 21, 140 San Marco, San Bruno, and Dennis Keough, 20, of San Francisco.

Three persons received minor injuries in an accident on the Peninsula Avenue overpass in San Mateo at 5:50 p.m.

Taken to Mills Hospital after the crash were:

Willie Ruth Montgomery, 42, 116 South Norfolk, San Mateo, the driver of one car; Olevia Garcia, 43, 322 North Kingston, San Mateo; and Jean G. McAdam, 73, 120 North San Mateo Drive, San Mateo.

Loser's Bid More Costly Than Winner

Democrat W. Mark Sullivan's unsuccessful campaign for Congress cost more than the winner's, according to statements filed with County Clerk John A. Bruning.

Sullivan said he received $31,941 in contributions from various sources and spent $1,250 of his own money, for a total of $33,191, all but $139 of which was spent on the campaign.

The Republican incumbent, J. Arthur Younger, who won reelection to a seventh term handily, reported receipts of $27,999 and expenditures of all but $13 of that amount.

Younger said he spent $5.21 out of his own pocket.

In the Twenty-seventh Assembly District, more was also spent by the loser than the winner.

Republican Andrew C. Byrd, who failed for the second time to defeat Democrat Leo J. Ryan, siad he spent $8,391 on his campaign, including $1,061 of his own money.

His opponent, Martin J. Sweeney, did not file a statement.

Smith Heads Cow Palace

Developer L. C. Smith of Hillsborough has been unanimously re-elected president of the Cow Palace, it was announced last week.

Lawrence Lane, publisher of Sunset Magazine, has been renamed vice president and Edward Dearon is secretary-treasurer and manager.

The annual election was held at the offices of Sunset Magazine in Menlo Park.

Serving on the board are Howard Gilmore, Edward O'Brien, both of Atherton, Mrs. Edith McDonald of Woodside, John Brucato of Millbrae, Stephen A. Solezzi Jr., Robert McCarthy, and Fred Parr Cox, all of San Francisco.

Smith was praised for his outstanding service as president of the Cow Palace during the past year. The board pointed to the notable success of the 1964 Grand National Livestock and Horseshow, terming it one of the best in many years. Smith pledged even greater effort toward next year's production at the Cow Palace with even more emphasis on the state's livestock industry.

Coast Road Open; Rites Set Jan. 7

Official opening ceremonies for Pacifica's new coastal Cabrillo Freeway have been tentatively set for January 7, according to Dino Casinelli, state highway engineer.

Casinelli said that the complete four-lane freeway was opened to traffic last week and that City Mgr. Karl Baldwin is working out arrangements for the official ceremony.

Last week, the Pacifica City Council decided to send invitations to state and council officials to attend the ceremonies.

Baldwin said that no definite plans for the ceremony have been made yet because a firm date has not been decided upon.

He said that he can not confirm the tentative date until contractors give highway officials a definite completion date.

The city manager added that the contractor must consider weather factors and finishing-up details before he can decide on a date for official completion of the freeway.

SPACE-AGE INTERVIEWS

No Computers for 'Kittens'

By GEORGE GOLDING

There were no IBM computers clacking, but "square pegs" became quickly obvious last week during employment interviews for San Mateo County's newest space-age occupation.

"Looks," said Bill Gilbert, promoter of the Tiger "a-go-go" nitery which opens at the Airport Hilton January 7. "That's what I'm looking for."

Statistics came rolling forth, as the interviews continued: age, phone number, measurements.

"I measure 36," said one pneumatic aspirant, "but I wear a 32-C cup bra."

The two newspaper photographers, two reporters, three television crewmen, two publicity agents, one radio announcer, one hotel manager, and one bar waiter all breathed deeply.

Gilbert kept doggedly on with his interviews, as befits a man seeking to employ "Tiger kittens" at $200 per week.

"Do you dance?" he asked. "Do you do the Swim and the Watusi?"

"Not professionally," said a tall blonde who was regally pale and admitted she had done "acrobatic" dancing on stage as a solo performer.

One quality Gilbert was not seeking is modesty, and he got little of it.

"Do I have to take my coat off in front of all those men?" queried one late-comer who was obviously past the 21-26 age bracket specified. She was the only bashful applicant.

Other girls had come from as far away as San Diego and Los Angeles for a chance at the money, proving their own assurance by the mere fact of responding to a newspaper ad that proclaimed:

"How beautiful girls can earn $200 a week . . . be a glamorous kitten . . . bring swim suit for interviews."

The audacious applicants were mostly attired in one-piece swim suits, but one wore (?) a two piece yellow bikini.

One was a mother of two, one is a WAVE, one came dressed in a "genuine fink" coat that glowed red under black fur. One was from Canada, one from Burlingame.

There was some confusion at first, while Gilbert attempted to take identification pictures of girls with a borrowed "picture in a minute" camera. After he and a world-famous cameraman and a radio reporter failed to make it go, the swim-suited interviewee showed them how.

"I used to take pictures with a camera like this in a cocktail lounge," she said, overriding Gilbert's advertised admonition, "no experience necessary."

He continued his questions, noting statistics, storing computations in his memory banks for future decisions that will be announced after Christmas when the "Tiger Kittens" are suited up for their new tasks.

Just what are those tasks? Few of the girls bothered to ask, but the implication was there in the cold hard calculators (newsmen) backing up Gilbert's question with beady eyes:

Considering the kind of skimpy-clad hostessing these gals will be asked to do while "swimming" along with a tray of cocktails, no machine will ever take over.

Two Seen Running for Airport Post

The naming of a new chief for San Francisco International Airport may reflect San Francisco's evaluation of their San Mateo County property as an industry, or as a part of its "port."

Two names are being voiced around city hall as "most likely" successors to Belford Brown, whose resignation becomes effective January 31.

The names are Rae Watts, head of the city's Port Authority, and D. J. "Jud" Callaghan, chief of the smog control district and former chief of industrial development for the San Francisco Bay Area Council.

Public Utilities Manager James Carr said several other names have been considered, and their applications will be scrutinized during Christmas week.

TODAY'S CONTEST WINNERS

GLORIA RODGERS
405 Yorkshire Way, Belmont, Calif.

8 yr. old Gloria is in the third grade at the Mae Nesbit Grammar School. Gloria likes school very much and is a Brownie. Her pets include goldfish and a dog named "Chico." In her letter Gloria writes: "Christmas means happiness for everyone. It is fun when you get presents. It isn't like your birthday because Santa Claus comes. When we get a Christmas tree I like to make decorations for it. It's almost like Thanksgiving when everyone gets round and fat. But Christmas really means love and friendliness."

JOE MILLER
130 Mulberry, So. San Francisco, Calif.

Joe is 10½ yrs. old and is in the 5th grade at Los Cerritos Grammar School. He has one brother age 9. He has just moved into this area and is going to join the Boys' Club. He likes to draw; has a German shepherd puppy, "Venus." Joe writes: "Christmas means the day of our Lord's birthday, and we celebrate this day to give thanks for all the good things we have and get. It's the season when we have a tree with lights and the fire is burning while we toast marshmellows. Christmas Eve Santa Claus comes and brings toys to all the little boys and girls—and new clothes. This day is the happiest day of the year for everyone, especially for me—it's the day my grandmother comes from Nevada to have Christmas dinner with my family."

TUESDAY
Sun Rises 07:22 Sun Sets 16:54
Moon Rises 21:20 Moon Sets 10:47

The sun, moon and tide tables show the hours of the day, numbered consecutively from 01:00 (1 a.m.) to 24:00 (midnight) instead of using 12 hours twice followed by a.m. or p.m. Noon is 12:00, 1 p.m. is 13:00. This is the practice followed by the Army, Navy and all government tide tables and almanacs.

Times and heights of tides at San Mateo Bridge, California. Furnished by Marine Exchange, Inc., from Coast and Geodetic Survey Data. Half Moon Bay tide 2 hours and 10 minutes earlier.

NOTE—In the above tabulation of the tides the daily tides are given in the order of the occurrence commencing with the early morning tide and the successive tides as they occur. On some days but three tides occur the fourth occurring the following morning.

The columns at heights give the elevation of each tide above or below the level of Coast Survey Chart surroundings. The numbers are always additive to the chart depths unless preceded by a minus sign or dash (-) when the numbers are subtracted from the depths given by the chart (U. S. Coast and Geodetic Survey).
